Free Water Market Seminars

Free seminars will be held across the Southern Murray-Darling Basin between late January and mid February. These seminars will provide valuable information for those interested in buying and selling water.

The information provided will cover the Australian water market and water trading, with topics including temporary and permanent water pricing, rainfall, storage and inflows, government purchasing, Changes to water market rules and policy and water values.

Attendees will have the opportunity to meet with some of Australia's most experienced water brokers, discuss their unique circumstances and ask questions throughout these sessions.

Waterfind CEO Tom Rooney said that "It is important growers throughout the Murray Darling-Basin understand the opportunities available in the water market and how to maximise those opportunities. Water is a major issue in the Murray Darling Basin and these seminars are one way we can help growers manage the unique challenges in the region."

Dates for the Information Seminars are:

Berri - Wednesday, 27 January, 4 to 6:30 pm. Berri Resort Hotel
